

PROFILE

I'm an experienced software developer in C# but I love to try new technologies. I started learning some fundamentals about React and more recently Python.

I'm used to work in a global team, that gives support to many countries and at an accelerated pace.

In a more personal side, I like to be a team player but also enjoy working "alone". I try to first solve any problem by myself before giving someone an heads up. This eases me to remember later the solution to some of the issues I go by in my developer career
